

ABSTRACT

The subscriber end of a network, such as a Fiber-To-The-Home (FTTH) network, utilizes a pair of wires to provide both power source (battery) status information and operating power over the pair of wires by superimposing tones, which indicate the status of the battery, onto a DC voltage on the pair of wires.

5

10